

Community Health Education Series Presents
Protecting our Children's Health
featuring
Diane Schmidt, MSW

Children are our greatest resource and yet our society puts them at high risk due to the “food” choices we have allowed to penetrate all aspects of our lives.

Come and learn how you can protect your child; enhance his/her immune system; make whole-food choices to support their health and enable them to have a long, healthy life and achieve their dreams.

Diane is passionate about children and educating parents to take control of the food choices that surround them. Her background includes: Educator at the elementary and college level; Family Systems Therapist; head of Prevention for the American Heart Association and Co-founder of the Wellness Council of Illinois.
